Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat the swelling of the mucous lining causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms where the breathing is obstructed by choking putrid mucus accumulations, the hearing effected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical safe

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT and an IMPROVED INHALER price $1.

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.
The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked more especially in difficult and long standing cases Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order Should the patient however require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient Use no other

Latest Details of the Great Storm in Texas.

SCENES OF DESOLATION AND RUIN

Swam the Niagara Whirlpool—Crop Prospects in the West—A Clergyman's Adventure in the Adirondacks—A Letter by Mrs. Cleveland

GALVESTON Aug 22—The wind freshened Friday evening and there were appearances that the night would be a repetition of the night before but these wore away as the night advanced By 10 o'clock the rain had ceased and the clouds had broken away and families who had been driven from their homes by the rapid inroads of the gulf waters the night before returned to their water logged houses and began the work of reparation while hundreds of others whose houses with all their possessions had been swept away sought shelter and rest after the terrors through which they had passed

A SCENE OF DESOLATION

The morning broke clear and beautiful and the waters which had inundated one half of the eastern and southern portions of the city to a depth of from one to seven feet had subsided except in [illegible] beach and adjacent portions of the city for several blocks back from the shore [illegible] unparalleled scene of havoc and desolation. As far as the eye could see ruins of hundreds of houses large and small had been buried and twisted into every shape while [illegible] pillars and wooden piling in every direction contiguous to the beach and exposed to the full force of the gale indicated where happy homes had stood the night before but which were swallowed up and destroyed in the awful storm that then prevailed All pleasure resorts along the beach are either swept away or ruined The [illegible] in front of the Beach hotel is furrowed by the force of the waves and piled with debris while all the false work protecting the foundation of the hotel with the fresh water tanks and outbuildings were swept away and deep furrows were cut under the building itself

A MENAGERIE DESTROYED

A menagerie consisting of a long row of cages on the beach lawn containing birds and animals was washed over and broken and many birds and animals were drowned or killed while others made their escape Among the animals that escaped were two Mexican lions which were on the point of making things lively when they were shot by a night watchman who received a dangerous wound by an accidental shot of his assistant passing through his arm

THE AMOUNT OF DAMAGE.

The heaviest damage to property was in the vicinity of the Beach hotel The wide area devastated by the water makes an approximate estimate of the amount of damage done somewhat difficult but it is now estimated by close calculations that it will not fall below $500 000, and may exceed that.

NOTES

The work of righting buildings has commenced street railways are being repaired and travel has been resumed over some of the lines, but many months will elapse before all traces of the storm are effaced

The majority of sufferers from the flood are of the poorer classes of people. Many of them lost all they had and are destitute and discouraged being dependent upon friends for temporary shelter and relief as private charity has been active in providing for the relief of sufferers.

Much apprehension existed all day Friday as to the safety of the Sisters of the orphanage five miles down the island, on the gulf side but it was reached yesterday and found to be intact the only damage being the washing away of the steps of the building

News reached this city yesterday afternoon that the schooner J W Perry from Brashear City with a cargo of cypress paving blocks foundered during the gale fifteen miles off the island and that Capt Whitmore and the colored cook were drowned Two sailors clung to some floating timbers and were driven ashore eighteen miles down the island They were nearly dead from exhaustion when found

The body of Willie Brown 11 years old residing in the western portion of the city, who was drowned Friday at the foot of Thirty third street, was recovered at the foot of Forty ninth street yesterday morning

This makes the tenth victim of the storm Railroad communication via the Missouri Pacific was established last night the first train arriving at 10 o'clock The Gulf Colorado & Santa Fe company expect to resume traffic on their road this evening

The bark Herbert which left here last week with a cargo of cotton for Bremen was driven back by the force of the gale and is now at her old anchorage at the outer road Her rigging was somewhat damaged by the storm, but otherwise she is intact.

Messages by hundreds have been pouring into the city all day from relatives and friends of inhabitants tendering aid and sympathy

AT ROCKPORT AND HARBOR ISLAND

A special to the News from Corpus Christi says "Friday morning one of the heaviest rainstorms for years struck this city The wind had commenced blowing very hard from the southeast the evening before and changed to the northwest between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. It blew with terrific force for two hours its velocity being estimated at seventy five miles an hour A large number of houses were moved from their foundation and the colored church and office of the Arkansas Pass railroad company were completely destroyed Large trees were uprooted and fences and out buildings were swept away

It blew very hard yesterday from the southeast The steamer J C Harris arrived yesterday noon two days overdue. She reports a terrible storm at Rockport and Harbor Island All the improvements and grading at Harbor Island were washed away, several boats were capsized and one large vessel was beached. At Rockport sixteen houses were blown off their foundations About 100 employes of the Arkansas Pass railway company were obliged to leave Harbor Island and seek refuge at Rockport as the water was six feet deep on the Island Seven men are missing, and it is supposed they were drowned during the storm The amount of damage has not been estimated but the loss is heavy

AT SEGUIN

SEGUIN Texas Aug 22—The damage by the storm here is very heavy The Record office was totally destroyed The new tower of the Episcopal church was blown down and a large number of [illegible] and private buildings were either destroyed or badly damaged Robert Jefferson son of Col J Jefferson was killed in Sutherland springs and and Gar and Smith and Richard Burgess were badly wounded They were camping at the springs and were injured by a falling tree A pauper living with John England across the river died of fright during the storm The cotton plant has been whipped into specks but many persons believe that it will take on a new growth and develop top [illegible] The damage has not yet been estimated but will be very heavy

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS

SWAM THE WHIRLPOOL

NIAGARA FALLS Aug 22—William J Kendall of Boston to day swam successfully in a cork vest the whirlpool rapids Niagara river The trial was to settle a wager of $10 000 made by Boston parties he to receive $1 000 of the stakes There were few spectators of the affair, it having been kept quiet Kendall relates the following experience When he reached the spot where Capt Webb is supposed to have lost his life the water seemed to go from under him and huge waves struck him on the head and shoulders knocking him unconscious for a few moments He found his swimming abilities of no use whatever and never expected to come out alive When entering the whirlpool he was so benumbed and partly unconscious that he could not use a limb and did not know what he was doing The current took him right into the main eddy and sucked him down like a flash keeping him under fully fifteen seconds Upon reaching the under current he was shot out of the pool fully fifty feet from its center When he reached the surface of the water he had partly regained consciousness and knowing there was [illegible] to be lost before he would be dashed down the lower rapids he swam to shore but while landing he was so overcome that he again became unconscious and his assistants were occupied fully half an hour in reviving him with the aid of stimulants and rubbing When asked if he would ever make another trip he said most emphatically No there is not enough money in the world to induce me to repeat this afternoon's experience A child would have the same chance to go through the rapids and come out all right as an expert swimmer It took him three minutes to go from the railroad bridge to the whirlpool Kendall is [illegible] years of age six feet and two inches in hight weighs 180 pounds and is well proportioned He [illegible] New York but has spent the most of his life in Boston The cork vest consisted of five pieces of cork sixteen inches long four inches wide and [illegible] inches thick which were sewed in white [illegible] similar to life preservers

A CLERGYMAN'S ADVENTURE.

PROSPECT HOUSE Adirondacks Aug 22—The President's party deferred attendance at church to day until afternoon The services of the day were conducted by Rev Montgomery H Throop, [illegible] Episcopalian clergyman of Chicago Mr Throop is camping on the lower Saranac lake and at the request of Rev Mr Dunton who supplies this pulpit he consented to officiate to day The journey is about twenty miles and has to be performed in a boat Mr Throop had an adventure on this trip which he will not soon forget With a boy for companion and guide he started for the church at this point yesterday afternoon Instead of going ashore and carrying his boat around the rapids of the Saranac river, as the guides do, Mr Throop thought he would push right through He got stuck fast before going very far, and then an oar slipped overboard and was swept down stream [illegible] was impossible for traveling, [illegible] under a rapidly setting sun was [illegible] of in such a wilderness. Knowing that guides were constantly passing and repassing the shipwrecked couple curled up on the rock waiting for whatever would turn up and both fell fast asleep A guide who was making his way up the river with a boat load of baggage reached the rock about 10 o'clock at night and his keen eye detected something unusual in its appearance Thinking a bear was perched upon it and proposed to dispute his passage he shouted vigorously and as there was no movement when he shouted the third time he reached forward among the baggage and felt for his Winchester Just then the clergyman awoke and startled the guide with a sharp Hallow there when an understanding was reached the baggage and boat were readjusted and the two were taken aboard

A VERY SENSIBLE LETTER

NEW YORK Aug 22—The Tribune's Wheeling W Va special says Mrs A. M Crow of Little ton recently wrote to Mrs. Cleveland asking her advice as to joining the Good Templars and signing the temperance pledge She received the following [illegible]

EXECUTIVE MANSION WASHINGTON D C
Aug 11 1886

MRS CROW—The subject to which you refer and ask my [illegible] is one [illegible] abstinence [illegible] for yourself to [illegible] better opportunities for knowing [illegible] the most good and it seems to me that [illegible] the standard by which we [illegible] great questions in life [illegible] training [illegible] pledge but [illegible] obligation of an organization we can better help our fathers brothers overand friends I think there should be no hesitation in the matter I now something of the Good Templars and that they do much good is quite certain You could do no harm by casting your lot on the side of temperance and you may do much good I do not consider it a small matter by any means and I am glad you asked me the question It is encouraging [illegible] every sister who wants to add her strength to a cause which, sad to say, one day will rid our land of ruined men and broken families Very truly yours
FRANCES CLEVELAND

CROP PROSPECTS

CHICAGO Aug 22—The following crop summary will appear in this week's issue of the Farmers' Review The tenor of reports from corn while indicating a slight improvement in some sections does not show any particular change for the better The crop as a whole has been badly injured and recent showers in Illinois while staying injury on the low lands have not revived the general crop condition indicating that a large proportion of the corn area has been burned dried up and ruined The general situation in Illinois and Iowa also has been aggravated by the presence of chinch bugs and the yield in Illinois does not promise to exceed one half that of last year while that of Iowa will be about 60 per cent of last year's crop In Minnesota Nebraska Michigan Ohio and Indiana the condition of growing corn is still reported as averaging fairly well In Wisconsin Missouri and Kansas the general outlook is poor but sufficient data is not at hand to make any close computation as to the probable yield There has been nothing in the reported threshing of wheat to indicate any special change in estimates made regarding the output for the entire country, viz from 415 000 000 to 420 000 000 bushel The yield of Dakota, Washington territory and Oregon will fall short of estimates heretofore published

FULL BLOODED ANARCHIST

CHICAGO July 22.—Joseph Hillman a German was drunk to day and apparently unable to contain the anarchist doctrines with which he seemed to be overflowing He stood on a corner near the West Twelfth street station and poured out violent incendiary anarchist speeches until he was driven away by the police Hillman was particularly violent in denouncing Rev Father Krabocich pastor of St Francis German Catholic church at the corner of West Twelfth street and Newberry avenue After being chased away from West Twelfth street, Hillman went to the corner of Fourteenth and South Halstead streets where he gathered a large crowd by his rapid oratory His propagation of socialistic sentiments was soon stopped by officers from the Canalport avenue station who arrested Hillman and he will have a chance to morrow in court to explain away his sympathy for the anarchists

HAS RECEIVED NO INTIMATION

WASHINGTON Aug 21—No intimation has been received at the state department of the alleged purpose of the Mexicans to pardon Cutting as soon as he shall have entered upon his term of imprisonment but there is a disposition to believe that some way will soon be found to release him and thus to get rid of annoying complications Should this be done merely as an act of clemency on the part of the Mexican authorities and without any avowed renunciation of the claim of extra territorial jurisdiction the government will then undertake the task of securing such renunciation so far as American citizens are concerned since the claim is held to be abhorrent to all principles of modern international law as recognized and practiced by governments which make any pretense to civilization

DYNAMITE BOMBS FOUND

CHICAGO Aug 22—Safely laid away in the Twenty second street station are four machines which are supposed to be dynamite bombs They were found to-day in the rear of No 563 East Twenty fifth street. The bombs are made of gas pipe one inch in diameter, and each eight inches long The ends are plugged up with wood and to one end of each is attached a fuse six inches long A piece of cord was tied to each bomb with a nail fastened to each cord The police explain the utility of the cords and nails by saying the bombs were intended to be used in buildings, to which they were to be fastened There is no clue to the parties who secreted the bombs.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, AUG. 23, 1886.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.

We have positive assurance, from men who propose to furnish the money and who are amply able to do it, that the Oregon Pacific railroad will be pushed on to an Eastern connection as soon as the line can be built. Twenty miles eastward from Corvallis will be built this fall, and in the meantime a route on to Boise City will be selected and surveyed. Already engineering parties are in the field. It is proposed to cross the Cascade mountains through the pass east of Albany, and to penetrate the best sections of middle Oregon. In the main the route will be direct, though there may be some divergence to take in the districts best calculated to yield business. We have these assurances from Col. Hogg, Mr. John I. Blair, of New Jersey and Mr. P. R. Pyne, of New York city. Mr. Blair is a well known investor. He is the richest man in New Jersey and many times a millionaire. Mr. Pyne is the president of the City bank in New York and besides his own great wealth is the trustee and manager of the Moses Taylor estate. These gentlemen who have spent the past two weeks in looking about the country are enthusiastic in appreciation of all they have seen and express absolute confidence in the future of the country and in the Oregon Pacific enterprise. Said Mr. Pyne: "I have seen enough to convince me that the story has been but half told. I believe that the Oregon Pacific will be a profitable railroad and that a great city will grow up at Yaquina bay." Mr. Blair approved of all Mr. Pyne said and both, avowing their connection with the Oregon Pacific enterprise, supported Col. Hogg's statement of plans as outlined above.

It is intended that at or near Boise City the Oregon Pacific shall meet the Chicago & Northwestern, which will extend its line to Idaho during the next two years. Of this road Mr. Blair is the chief stockholder. Mr. Pyne is also a large stockholder. They, with their connections, control its management and so are able to speak with authority. The idea of these enterprises, so these gentlemen inform us, is not speculative. The lines are to be built with the expectation that they will do a profitable business in transporting freight and passengers and with this view every possible effort will be made to develop the country. The work will be pushed with as much haste as is consistent with economical construction. With such assurances we cannot doubt that within the next three years, possibly in two years, Oregon will have another transcontinental road. The prospect is full of good promises. By coming through the middle of the state, the proposed line will open up a region very great in extent and which, it is reported, contains much good agricultural and grazing land; and besides this local benefit, we shall have from the new line all the advantages which grow out of general competition.

It is the purpose of the projectors of this enterprise to make the terminus at Yaquina bay. Their plans include the erection this fall and next season of extensive terminal works at the new town of Yaquina, which they have faith will become a great commercial city. In their judgment, Yaquina bay affords sufficient space for all the requirements of a great port, and they believe that the improvement of the entrance to any degree desired is an easy matter of engineering. In this matter we believe they are too sanguine. Government engineers estimate that it is possible to increase the depth of water on the Yaquina bar to eighteen feet at low tide, seven feet deeper than the present soundings as demonstrated by measurements made last month by order of the government engineer. To deepen the channel to eighteen feet at low water (and less than this will not answer for a commercial port in competition with the Columbia river) will take a long time and a prodigious amount of money. The present scheme of improvement, in progress under government authority and at the government charge, contemplates no such extensive improvement as this.

When the proposed road is completed we believe that it will have to come to Portland, for these reasons: First, because the business of the country is centered and firmly established at Portland; and because, to get business, a railroad must run where people want to go, and where there is freight to be carried. Second, because Portland, through her central position and her situation at the junction of the two great valley systems of the northwest, is the place where the productions of the whole country can be massed most cheaply. Third, because there is not now at Yaquina bay, or likely to be for some years to come, a harbor suitable for general commerce.

LOGAN AND THE WAR DEMOCRACY.

Gen. Logan's valuable book "The Great Conspiracy" contains nothing more interesting than his clear separation of the action of the war democracy of the North and the copperhead democracy. The leader of the war democracy was Douglas, who before the war had been Logan's leader. A curious fact is that when the flag was fired upon the war democracy was not exclusively composed of Douglas democrats. On the contrary the great war secretary Stanton, Ben. Butler and Daniel S. Dickinson had been Breckinridge democrats in the presidential contest of 1860. Butler had voted for Jeff Davis at the Charleston convention and Stanton never hesitated to express his hatred and contempt for the Republican party, and yet as Gen. Logan's book shows, when the efforts for peace were exhausted the uprising of the war democracy for the flag included many men who had not been Douglas democrats. President Buchanan and his attorney-general, Jerry Black, when they denied the right of secession and at the same time denied the right of coercion were the fathers of the copperhead democracy that persisted in obstructing Lincoln's policy from first to last. The senators from the state of Oregon were divided. The most eloquent champion of the Union, E. D. Baker, and the ugliest and most aggressive Northern copperhead, Jo. Lane, were the senators from Oregon. Logan quotes some passages from Baker's speeches for the Union that are surpassingly eloquent. Senator Lane, of Oregon, December 19, 1860, warned the U. S. senate that if Lincoln dared to coerce South Carolina the "Northern democracy, instead of marching with him, will meet him there ready to repel him and his forces. I now serve notice that the Northern democracy will not join in that crusade; the Republican party will have war enough at home; the democracy of the North need not cross the border to find an enemy." Ex-President Pierce wrote Jeff Davis, January 6, 1860: "The fighting will not be along Mason's and Dixon's line merely. It will be within our own borders, in our own streets. If we ever reach the arbitrament of arms the republicans will find occupation enough at home." Fernando Wood proposed the secession of New York city from the Union and predicted that grass would grow in its streets if Lincoln's war policy prevailed.

On the other hand Douglas, April 18, 1861, called on Lincoln and said: "I am for my country and against all its assailants." April 25, 1861, Douglas addressed the Illinois legislature and said: "Forget party; remember only your country; the shortest road to peace is the most tremendous preparation for war." In his last speech at Chicago he said: "There can be no neutrals in this war—only patriots and traitors." Whether Mr. Douglas was entirely unselfish in his patriotism, whether he was not influenced something by a feeling of vindictiveness toward the Southern democracy that had spilled his cup of ambition at Charleston we will not argue; it cannot be doubted that his action gave Lincoln's administration the support of the war democracy of the North without which the war would have been a failure and secession a success. Douglas died June 3, 1861, but his name was potent to keep the war democracy faithful to the flag to the end of the rebellion. Logan had anticipated Douglas in his patriotism, for January 7, 1861, he had voted for a resolution approving of Maj. Anderson's removal to Fort Sumter, and February 5, 1861, in a speech he denounced secession and declared he would "sink his party any moment to save the Union." As early as April, 1861, Logan told Douglas that he proposed at an early day to raise a regiment for the Union and draw his sword in its defense. Among the democrats who followed Logan and Douglas and supported Lincoln were Butler, Dix, Stanton, Holt, Palmer, McClernand, Shepley, Cass, Dickinson, Brady, Steedman, Devens. Among the most useless of Union recruits was Gen. Patterson of Philadelphia, a fervent Breckinridge democrat whose chief of staff was Fitz John Porter. Logan clearly thinks that Patterson and Porter deliberately disobeyed the orders of Gen. Scott and connived at the successful junction of Beauregard and Johnston's armies and the consequent Union reverse of Bull Run. Logan quotes McClellan's proclamation of May 26, 1861, promising to "crush out with an iron hand any attempt at a slave insurrection." Patterson June 3, 1861, in a proclamation to his troops instructs them "should the occasion offer, to at once suppress a servile insurrection." Gen. Mansfield as late as July 17, 1861, issued orders excluding fugitive slaves from the camps. But congress soon passed an act emancipating the slaves of masters in rebellion. Baker of Oregon seems to have been the greatest orator of those days. He it was who August 1, 1861, answered Breckinridge, of Kentucky, not yet expelled from the senate. This was Baker's last speech before he fell at Ball's Bluff the next October. Logan justly, we think, regards Baker as the genius of that great debate, and scholarly Charles Sumner always described Baker as a man "of surpassing power of exuberent eloquence who met the polished Breckinridge at every point with weapons keener and brighter than his own." The great speech of Baker at the American theater, San Francisco, after his election by Oregon to the senate in 1860, reads to-day like the words of inspiration and prophecy. Baker is fitly selected by Logan as the most eloquent voice that spoke for the Union, and Jo Lane was the most bitter and savage voice against the war for the Union that was heard from a Northern state, so Oregon that had the glory of Baker had the shame of Lane. Dix and Halleck repelled and expelled fugitive slaves from our camp; Buell and Hooker returned them to their masters, while Fremont, Doubleday, Butler and Hunter treated them as contrabands and open to emancipation. McClellan was the foe of emancipation and wrote Lincoln from Harrison's Landing in July, 1862, against it. Logan has placed in the pillory of history the names of the leading copperheads within and without congress. Seymour, of New York, and his brothers in Connecticut were bitter enemies of the draft. So were Hendricks, Voorhees and Holman in Indiana. Pendleton in Ohio. Vallandigham, Long, Harris, of Maryland were out and out traitors in thought and speech. Wood, Cox, Richardson, Brooks, Eaton, of Connecticut, and Tilden were bitterly obstructive to Lincoln's policy, and so were Randall and Morrison. Logan has done good service to the truth of history in placing these men on record, for some of them survive to-day and try to posture as old friends of the Union during the war, but Logan quotes from the Congressional Globe name, date and speech for all these copperheads, living and dead, who fired into our backs so furiously while Logan was saving the Union army from defeat before Atlanta the week that Sherman's flank was turned and McPherson fell.

GROSS MISREPRESENTATION.

A most bitter and persistent defamer of Portland and its interests is The Railroad Record and Investors' Guide, a Philadelphia publication, issued semi-monthly. The recent loss of the ship William H. Besse on the Columbia bar is made a text by this journal for a string of gross misstatements. The circumstance is put in the most damaging form, while no reference whatever is made to the fact, now perfectly understood, that the disaster was a direct result of an attempt by the captain, contrary to all rule and custom, to enter the river without tug or pilot. No reference is made to the other fact that when the ship struck she was far (two or three miles) out of the usual track, and that she was in this position by design and for the express purpose of dodging tug and pilot service and saving their fees. We quote:

> The Columbia river bar is well known and bears the bleaching remains of many wrecks to mark the loss it has caused to hardy mariners who have sought to earn their bread by carrying the freights offered to Portland. Readers do not generally understand that Portland is upon the Willamette river, which is a branch of the Columbia river. Thus a vessel to reach this port is obliged to sail up both rivers, amounting to a distance of 220 miles, going and coming, which is an expensive business, apart from the risk run in passing the various impediments to navigation that cannot be removed. In any cold or comparatively dry winter the dangers incurred in reaching Portland are correspondingly increased. There is Swan island to be looked out for as well as Postoffice bar, Wilbur bar, Walker's crossing, Martin's island and St. Helen's crossing, over none of which a vessel drawing more than thirteen feet of water can safely undertake to pass.

The article from which the above is taken concludes with a glowing account of the port of Tacoma quite as absurd in its extravagance as is the paragraph above in its disparagement. The Tacoma land ring could explain, no doubt, the motive for this and other similar articles. They illustrate the methods of this ring, which is founded in fraud and managed like any other swindle.

Since it is well known to all familiar with the two ports, it is scarcely necessary to say that the entrance to the Columbia river is as safe as the entrance to the Sound. We have, it is true, a bar, which the Sound has not; but we have not the treacherous currents of Fuca straits, we have not Race rocks, nor have we the fogs which often delay, harass and endanger shipping at the north. If the records be carefully compared it will be found that the losses at the Columbia river bar have not been in greater proportion than at the entrance to the Sound.

As to the dangers of the river channels, the charge is absurd to the degree of being funny. There is no more danger in passing up and down the river than in lying at anchor in a safe harbor. There is, indeed, no possibility of serious mishap at any time of the year. The importance and convenience of Portland as a port is sufficiently demonstrated by the fact that ships of deep draught come here year after year, and that as our shipping trade grows in volume the premium against us declines. Formerly we paid ten shillings per ton advance upon the San Francisco charter rate, but now we pay but five, barely enough to cover the extra expenses of towage, etc., in the river. There is now no premium against us on the score of extra hazard. It may be added that the extra expenses for towage, etc., are nearly as great for ships loading at Tacoma as for ships loading at Portland.

The Canadian Pacific is going about its business with great energy. It has unloaded two tea ships already and two more are to arrive. It has established an agency at San Francisco and is, so we are told, to have one in Portland. But this is not all. It is reaching out into United States territory south of its line and is likely to attract a good share of business. The Stevens county (Colville, W. T.) Reporter says: "The Canadian Pacific people are very anxious to get the start of the Northern Pacific railroad into the interior of the country. They claim that they can transport our bullion for less money than the Northern Pacific, and are bound to have a line of boats on the Columbia, and a branch road from Colville to the river. An agent of the company passed through on Wednesday looking up the field."

The reception to Gen. Logan by the G. A. R. at the pavilion to-night is not to be a close affair. It is intended to be popular in the wide sense becoming the man and the circumstances of his visit. He is here on a visit of pleasure and observation, in answer to many invitations, and should be received, as he will be, with the attentions due a man in the forward rank of public service. The general public is invited to come out to see him and hear him.

Bulgaria, it seems, is tired of trying to stand alone, and appeals to Russia to be taken back on the old terms. Again the folly of trying to establish a ready-made government is demonstrated. A country is best governed by that system of government which it develops for itself.

The political race in Washington territory this fall will be nobody's "sure thing." That cyclone still lurks about the country handy for any job that may turn up.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Yakima court house has been removed from the old town to the new, and is partly rebuilt.

The grinding of new wheat commenced last week at the Kittitas mill. The shipping of flour from below will now cease.

The Walla Walla sheriff has been authorized to buy balls and chains and organize county prisoners into a chain gang.

A petition signed by some 300 persons has been forwarded to the department to have a postoffice established at Tunnel City with P. D. Kingsbury as postmaster.

Threshing in Eastern Washington has been in progress for the past two weeks. The grain is plump and pretty well filled, and the yield is said to be better than was expected.

Hon. Ezra Meeker and wife left Puyallup Friday for Eastern Washington. Mr. Meeker will deliver, at Spokane Falls, the address before the Washington agricultural association.

Charles Helm, a prominent stockraiser of Klickitat county, has driven over 500 head of horses to the Big Bend country. A large band of sheep had been driven there, but so many dogs and sheep were killed that the owners were compelled to take them away.

The ships Alaska and Yosemite, now loading coal at Tacoma, had aboard when they arrived there non-union crews. The other night the vessels were boarded by about fifty men, supposed to be members of the sailors' union, and the crews aboard unceremoniously fired out, and at last accounts the vessels were still without crews.

Olympia Standard: S. Z. Mitchell, representing the Edison Light company and the American Electric Manufacturing company of New York, has been canvassing the town with a view of introducing the incandescent system. He proposes to use the Tumwater falls for power to run the dynamo, and to furnish both light and power from the same plant.

Tacoma News: Two Chinamen who arrived at the wharf Thursday, having come from some point down Sound, left by the next morning's train for Portland. To-day another Chinaman came in. He says he will leave to-morrow morning for Portland. He was a former resident of this city. He was on Pacific avenue this afternoon but attracted no unusual attention.

Eureka flat some ten years ago was nothing but a stock range; now the whole country is a vast grain field as it were. There is little to mark the division of the numerous ranches. In the absence of line fencing the little stock that remains has to be guarded and cared for by the respective owners. This fertile tract is capable of producing from 350,000 to 500,000 acres of grain.

Douglas county is only a little over two years old, yet it enters this fall on its second county seat fight. Several applicants for the honor of being designated as its shire-town are already in the field. Okanogan is the place designated two years ago this fall, as the proper place for its sacred records and accumulated funds, but the town is situated on an eminence where the expenditure of hundreds of dollars in sinking a well has failed to discover water. A new town has lately been started in the Badger mountain country, by a party of boomers, for the express purpose of capturing the county seat. It is quite probable that with so many candidates the contest will result in no removal.

OREGON.

A petition is to be circulated praying for the establishment of a mail route between Ione and Arlington, without discontinuing the present one from Castle Rock.

Robert Miller, of Scotts valley, Douglas county, met with quite a serious accident while engaged in feeding a threshing machine. His right arm was caught in the machinery and severely injured.

The business portion of La Grande, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt immediately. Those who can afford it will build entirely of brick. Among those who talk of erecting bricks are Higginson & Rogers, Henry Anson, H. M. Hassett, Jay Brooks, A. Sommer, and others. The brick for their buildings will be procured from Pendleton.

M. C. Harris, of Arlington, publisher of the Enterprise, is the defendant in a $10,000 libel suit brought by W. G. Brown, an attorney of that place. The complaint, published in the Enterprise this week, shows that Brown has been the subject of a number of uncomplimentary remarks in Harris's paper. It appears that Brown got a slap on about every possible occasion.

Salt Creek correspondence of the Polk county Itemizer: A crazy man made his appearance here on Tuesday. His name is John Putnam and he lives at Amity, Yamhill county. He was followed by his brother and brother-in-law, but would not be taken by them, as he kept them at bay with a pistol. David A. Dodson was hauling wheat to Ballston and succeeded in getting Putnam to ride with him to McMinn Dodson's, where, after giving him his dinner, David Dodson and F. W. Royal captured and disarmed him and turned him over to his brother and brother-in-law, who were in waiting a short distance from the house. They took him to Amity, where he will be cared for.

SOUTHERN OREGON MINES.

Ashland Tidings.

The building on Jackson creek for the new quartz mill bought by Henry Klippel is about completed, and the machinery will be set up in a short time.

The Green Bro.'s quartz ledge at Galice creek was sold recently at a good price for cash to a company of capitalists of Portland. The new owners propose building a road to the mines to cost about $4000, and will push everything in like proportion.

There has been quite a rush for mining claims on the west fork of Cottonwood creek near Henley, Cal., where good prospects were recently discovered. About all the land along the creek is now taken up. Among the Ashland people who are interested are Messrs. Blount & Olsen, who are already making preparations to put in a hydraulic.

John Swinden, of Gold Hill, writes under date of August 14, to inform us that the statement published in the Portland and Roseburg papers to the effect that L. D. Brown & Son were interested with him in the Swinden ledge is erroneous, as the ledge is his own individual property; he did make a contract with Brown & Son to mill some rock from the ledge, but as yet the firm has not complied with the terms of the contract. Mr. Swinden further says that so far as he is concerned he is entirely willing to give the public any information he can about the ledge.

The Wagner Creek Mining company's mill, which has been running on rock from the Pilgrim ledge some months past, was stopped last week and it is not yet known positively whether it will be started again soon or not. The Pilgrim has been yielding less free gold than was anticipated, but it is said the sulphurets collected will bring a large sum at Omaha. The Huntington mill has been reducing only about three tons of rock per day, on an average, it is stated, and the probability is that the owners of the mine are considering the question of putting up a large stamp mill, which would pay upon a low-grade rock when a little grinding mill would not.

A Close Shave for Grover.

From the Washington Post.

"Grover, step here for a moment, please!"

"Yes, dear; what is it?"

"Grover, did you write that letter to Albany—that one right there, that my finger is on?"

"Yes, darling; ha, ha! Pretty well turned; don't you think so?"

"Have they printed it just exactly as you wrote it, Grover? Just look it over carefully."

"Why, yes, dearest—I thought it would please 'em—yes' that's just as I wrote it, love—why?"

"Well, Grover, it remarks: 'In present surroundings, and in all that the future may have in store, I must revert to the time I lived in Albany as the happiest period of my life.' Is that as you wrote it?"

"Certainly; that is—didn't they put it on? Hang 'em! They left that off! I added: "Excepting the last six or seven weeks." "

"Are you per-fect-ly su—re you added that, Mr. Cleveland? Very well. I will forgive you, then."

Tea Shipments via the Canadian Pacific.

Victoria Colonist.

Messrs. Frazer & Co., of New York and Yokohama, the great tea shippers, have issued a circular stating that the British bark Carrie Delap has been placed on the berth in Hiogo and Yokohama to load teas for Vancouver, B. C., in transit for Eastern cities over the Canadian Pacific railway. This will be the vessel for August sailing, the rate being the same as for the previous three ships. The cargo of the W. B. Flint is now being delivered. The Flora P. Stafford sailed from Yokohama on the 10th of July, and is due at Vancouver, while the third ship, the Zoroya, sailed on the 3d of August. The freight earnings to the Canadian Pacific from the above three ships will be in the vicinity of half a million dollars.

A Toronto dispatch says that Messrs. Meisson & Morrow of that city have been advised of the withdrawal of the Cyprus and Shanghai, and the placing on the berth in Hiogo and Yokohama of the Carrie Delap to load with teas, etc., for Vancouver, in transit for Eastern cities over the Canadian Pacific railway.

RESOLUTIONS BY 'LONGSHOREMEN

For a week past the 'longshoremen have been growling over the fact that the ship Noddleburn was lightered down the river by sailors They claim this to be an invasion of their rights, as sailors are hired as sailors and not as 'longshoremen or stevedores. A dispute of a like nature arose about three years ago which was eventually decided in the 'longshoremen's favor. Yesterday in order to take action in the present case, a general meeting was held and the following resolutions adopted

We the longshoremen in mass meeting assembled hereby draft the following resolutions

WHEREAS It has come to our notice that the ship Noddleburn has been working cargo with sailors and outsiders down river therefore be it

Resolved That we the longshoremen of Portland will not load or unload any vessel arriving in Portland after August 23 worked by the above-mentioned parties And be it further

Resolved That the wages for lightering ships down the river be 55 cents an hour from the time we leave Portland until we return to Portland again

The sense of the meeting was that the Noddleburn is excused, but that future vessels in which cargo is worked down river by sailors will not be.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON FIRE —About ... o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm was sounded for a fire in the rear of the Holmes building on First street, between Washington and Stark, and back of the Portland water company's office and James McPhelim's grocery store on Stark street, between First and Second. The fire, though a small one, resulted in a considerable amount of damage being done Running from Second street, next door to the corner of Stark is an alleyway which leads to a yard that takes in part of the center of the square block bounded by Washington, Stark First and Second streets. It is here the fire originated and according to all accounts from the burning of some rubbish consisting of pieces of cloth, etc Some sparks from this it seems set fire to a frame building back of the store of McKercher & Thompson, in which wholesale stationery supplies and books were stored in boxes The shed was almost totally destroyed but some of its contents were saved Immediately on the fire starting in the shed it communicated to the back portion of the office of the Portland Water company on Stark street, and to James McPhelim's grocery store adjoining H Leonard, secretary of the water company who was sitting in his office, heard the crackling of the flames and at first thought a water pipe had burst, On observing his mistake he ran and opened the front door, and although there were numbers of people on the street he could not at that moment get any one to help him to quench the fire A minute or so later an alarm sounded from box 14 which was promptly responded to, and with the use of a few well directed streams the fire was soon gotten under control Not, however, until the frame work of a window in the rear of the Portland library had caught, a window of David Goodsell's law office, and that of the armory of Companies K and L, O S M McKercher & Thompson sustain damage of about $600 or more, insured, James McPhelim principally by smoke and water, $700 to $100, insured in the Hartford Water company, about $800 B / Holmes about $250, I Bickel, $30 to $ ... This is the fourth time Bickel's frame row has caught fire. The old Willamette theater seems to be a salamander

DEATH OF MRS LAIDLAW —Mrs James Laidlaw died at Newport, Yaquina bay, at half past one o'clock Saturday evening For several weeks she had been a sufferer, much of the time confined to her bed, but it was not imagined that her life was in danger till four days ago, when a summons came for her family physician in this city The summons was obeyed promptly, but without avail Of the final sad event, only the general fact is known here as yet. Mr Laidlaw, who had returned to the city for a day or two, hastened to his wife's bedside when word came that her condition had changed and was with her to the end. The body will arrive at home this evening at 6 o'clock and the funeral will take place to-morrow at 11 from Trinity church Mrs Laidlaw, before her marriage was Miss Louise Carpenter, the daughter of Dr Carpenter, a clergyman of Brooklyn, New York. She came to Portland a bride twelve years ago, and has lived here continuously since that time She was a sincere, sweet woman, of exceptionally bright mind, and greatly loved by a wide circle Her life here has been filled with good works of kindness and mercy

STILL SERVING AS CATS PAWS.—Aiken and Spears, the tea store clerks, convicted of running a lottery, are still confined in the county jail, and according to all appearances will have to remain there the allotted 100 days, the term of imprisonment to which they were sentenced in default of the payment of a fine of $200 each They have now been locked up something over a month The principal of the concern skipped East when his employes were first arrested He afterwards secured the release of his nephew, Cook, by remitting money from Council Bluffs to pay his fine. Aiken and Spears for some time labored under the delusion that the "boss" of the concern would eventually open his heart as well as his purse and send on enough filthy lucre to enable them once more to breath the free air, but it looks as if they will have to resign themselves to the inevitable, as the giver away of diamond pins, rings, watches and twenty dollar pieces does not show up on the present occasion worth a cent. The young men served as catspaws for the boss, and as prisoners they are still serving

RACES AT CITY VIEW PARK —The match trot between Sheriff and Lady Blackwood at City View park, drew a fair crowd yesterday Sheriff sold slight favorite in the pools before the first heat bringing $10 to $8 on Lady Blackwood It was Sheriff's race from the start, he winning in three straight heats best time 2 3... Sheriff is a Vancouver horse and the contingent from that city won some money on him Then they thought "Vancouver against the world," and got up a 100 yard foot race between Howard Bozarth of that city and young Hirsch of Portland They backed their favorite readily with their winnings on the trot, found anxious takers, and lost as Hirsch won the race "hands down" The Vancouver sports quit even on the day and had the fun besides Another foot race was run between Hirsch, Robb and Holden the former winning easily

ARMY LIFE —Mrs Wittenmeyer, who is to lecture at the Tabernacle next Sunday on temperance and army life was the first sanitary agent commissioned in the West In the winter of 1861, while at the front distributing supplies sent down to her by the ton, the legislature of Iowa sent her a commission signed by Gov Kirkwood Mrs Wittenmeyer was connected with the Christian commission organized by Mr George H. Stuart of Philadelphia, and had charge of special departments until the close of the war She organized the "diet kitchen," which furnished a million wholesome and palatable rations for the sick and wounded men From the abundant store of her wonderful experience she has prepared several lectures and they are having great success

SERENADE At about 10 o'clock last night a merry party of young people, in a large wagon drawn by four horses, evidently returning from a day's outing, drove to the Stark street ferry slip, directly under the reporters room, and halted A minute later the strains of "Awake, my Love" from a quartette of very sweet female voices, were wafted through the open windows as gentle and soothing as the breath of early spring It was very pleasant, and all hands from slug 1 in the composing room to the heavy editorial man dropped work and gave himself up to drinking in the melody Sunday night is always dull around a newspaper office, and the serenade lighted up the mental gloom like a meteor.

A PARALLEL —Yesterday Will K. Peck, of Cole's circus, was inquiring of a friend here how it happened that the city council put such a heavy license on shows The friend explained that the old license was only $15 a performance, and Cole got in four tentsful at that price Then he announced a return. The council considered like this Here's a man comes into a town and takes out $20,000 We can catch him when he comes back for two performances, and we'll put it on thick enough to average up on the six So they did Mr Peck received the information in silence, and then asked with a refreshing naiveté "Why don't they put a heavy license on Villard? He took more money out of the town than Cole did"

BRIDGE ACROSS THE SANTIAM.—Mr West, superintendent of construction of the railroad bridge across the Willamette at Albany, informed an OREGONIAN reporter that upon the completion of the structure at that place work would immediately begin on a similar structure across the Santiam, the line of the Oregon Pacific having been definitely located to a point forty miles beyond Albany. It is the intention of the company to push their line to the Cascade range with all possible dispatch.

HOW TO SEE THE COUNTRY —Last week Z T Wright, accompanied by Capt. Baxter, from Wisconsin, an old army friend, made a trip to Salem, then by stage to Amity, and from that point home in the evening. This was for the purpose of showing the country, and is an example worthy of imitation. Such a trip affords opportunity of hastily viewing one of the most productive regions of the Willamette valley, and is one that strangers should be induced to take whenever possible.

BAD MARKSMANSHIP —A shooting affair which occurred last week is reported from Tan City, ... on the Cascade branch George Gilmore and a young man named Wilson had quarreled and agreed to shoot each other on sight. When they came together Gilmore was unarmed, but some one handed him a revolver, and both guns cracked about the same time. Gilmore endeavored to get in a second shot but his weapon would not respond, and throwing up his arms, shouted "Shoot, you ——" Wilson immediately replied with two balls, both of which missed Gilmore, but one struck J V Dougherty, a spectator, and took off the lobe of his right ear. The combatants were placed under arrest

SNUG LITTLE LEGACY —The many friends of Mrs I P Church in this city will be pleased to learn of the good fortune of this estimable lady in coming into possession of $ 6,000 through the will of an aunt, lately deceased Mr Church recently left San Francisco for the East but will soon return to the coast, and they will make her home either in Portland or Alameda, Cal.

FAIR DATES CHANGED —Francis H Cook president of the Washington Fair association of Spokane Falls, writes to THE OREGONIAN that the date of the first annual exhibition has been changed from Sept 1, 2, 3 and 4 to Sept 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 The people of Spokane Falls propose to make the fair a success

A MINISTER'S FAREWELL.

Rev G W Chandler's Parting Sermon at Taylor Street M E. Church—Resolutions by the Sunday School.

The Taylor street church was filled to overflowing last evening on the occasion of the farewell sermon of Rev G. W Chandler, who has so successfully filled the pastorate of the church for the past two years. The sermon by Mr Chandler was a grand effort and the occasion was one never to be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to be present.

His ecclesiastical term has been successfully closed Its financial obligations all fully met with a large and enthusiastic membership

Rev Mr Mullenix, who is just closing a three years term at Towne street charge, Columbus, Ohio, and who is a minister of great power and eloquence, will be the successor of Rev Mr Chandler

The Sunday school was very largely attended yesterday during the session of which the following resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote

WHEREAS Our beloved pastor Rev G W Chandler together with his estimable wife and family is about to remove from this city to devote a season to travel in Europe and the Holy Land then to return to the active duties of minister's life and we as a Sunday school desire in some proper manner to express the high esteem and deep affection we bear for them and our most earnest wishes for their future happiness and prosperity therefore

Resolved That during the two years last past the Taylor street Methodist Sunday school has found in Rev and Mrs G W Chandler faithful intelligent and sympathetic co laborers in all that pertained to the best interests of the school that as such they have greatly endeared themselves to every one connected with the Sunday school society and that as they go hence they bear with them our grateful affection our most ardent and hopeful wishes and sincere prayers for their future happiness and prosperity and their continued abundant usefulness in the great field to which in the providence of God they have been called to effective labor

Resolved That in thus taking leave of Mr and Mrs Chandler we indulge the hope that in the future whether in the great art centers of Europe or in viewing the ground or in treading the paths once pressed by the feet of our common and blessed Redeemer or in the active duties of ministerial life their minds will sometimes pleasantly revert to the Taylor street church and Sunday school where in the kind providence of God we have been permitted to enjoy the pleasure of their society and the benefit of their loving Christian counsel for the past two years.

Feeling complimentary remarks were made by Judges Caples and Welty, by Mrs. Stanley and others, which were eloquently and affectionately responded to by Mr Chandler

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler leave to-day for the East over the Northern Pacific. They are loved and respected by all with whom they have met during a pleasant pastorate of two years in Portland

THE EAST SIDE

Pastor's Farewell—Ah Goon the Stabber, Captured—Delegates Elected

The auditorium of the M E church was packed last evening, the occasion being the farewell sermon of Rev Samuel P Wilson The pastor took for his text Acts xx, 32. "And now, brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified" The discourse was earnest and impressive, and listened to with rapt attention throughout. At the close of the sermon the choir rendered a beautiful quartette entitled, "God be with you till we meet again" Mr. Wilson gave a complete report of the work done during his three years pastorate, a synopsis of which has already been published in these columns. On Wednesday the reverend gentleman will go to conference at Forest Grove accompanied by his wife. He leaves with the best wishes of a host of friends.

NEW MARKET THEATER.—To night, for the first time in Portland, the great drama of "Across the Continent" will be produced There is probably no American play ever written that has made so much money and had so long a run throughout the United States as "Across the Continent." Manager Howe has had entire new scenery painted for the piece by Volz, the artist, and intends to make this a grand production Following is a synopsis of scenes Great illuminated snow scene, old Five Points, New York, street scene in New York, New York dance house of the period, introducing songs, dances and specialties, drawing room in the house of Thos. THE BRITISHERS AGAIN BEATEN.

The Home Club Do Some Responsible Batting, and the Visitors Some Bad Muffing

The Amitys, of Victoria, were beaten 17 to 8 at the Oaks yesterday, and the Portlands have won the International (hotel) championship About the only difference between the game and that of Saturday was that the visitors made four more and the home nine more errors Borthwick caught for the Victorians in fine style At the end of the fourth inning the score stood 4 to 5 in favor of the Portlands, and, as the visitors were playing a steady game, it looked as if there would be some sort of a contest. The fifth inning resulted in blanks, and the Britishers failed to score in the first half of the sixth Fairbairn came to the bat for the Portlands, was given bases on balls, stole second, and scored on Glendenning's safe hit into the right field fence Edwards struck out, Timmons batted a corker to right field, Glen taking third Egan popped up a sky scraper which Nap Gowan muffed—the most costly error of the game Coulter flew out to left field Connolly batted safely, Glen and Timmons scoring Then Buchtel wielded the willow one mighty wield, and the ball traveled to the center field fence, Egan and Connolly scoring and Buchtel making third He scored on Tedleman's wild throw—a total of six runs, which practically settled the contest. Features of the game were Buchtel's and Edwards' fine work in short field In the third inning Buchtel fielded three men out, and in the fifth, Edwards did the same Following is

NESTUCCA BAY NOTES

ORETOWN, Aug 19, 1886

It seems like a great mistake that the postoffice on this pretty bay was not called Nestucca, for certainly no prettier and more appropriate name could be found The present name is a misnomer, and is misleading, for, so far as I know, there is no ore of any kind to be found here The origin of the name may be interesting to your readers It appears that when an office was to be established, there was a person here who had been a notary public at Oregon City He had in his possession a stamp with Oregon City upon it. A stamp was needed for the postoffice, and the thought occurred to this person that by rearranging the letters on this stamp so as to read Oretown, they would thus have a stamp for their office without the expense or trouble of sending into the valley to have one expressly made for the purpose This name was therefore sent on to Washington and adopted by the department—hence Oretown, a most unfitting and inappropriate name, was stamped upon this beautiful spot.

A good many improvements have been made on the bay during the past year The settlers have improved their places considerably and are getting about them more and more the comforts and conveniences of life. New and enlarged barns, better tilled fields, more clearings and more cattle and sheep upon the hills, tell of a growing prosperity

Mr J B. Upton has a small band of fine blooded cattle on his place, shorthorns, Holsteins and Jerseys, which do well on the native grasses This is the beginning of what will make this one of the best dairy sections of Oregon

Mr. W T Barnhart has had a fine yield of small fruit on his place this year His strawberries, blackberries and raspberries grow with great richness and yield most luscious fruit. His Cuthbert variety of raspberries are the finest, I think, that I have ever seen. They show what careful culture and a good climate can do in this respect.

Mr Jeff Shaw is building a house, which, unlike the pioneer houses of the place, is made of sawed instead of split or hewed lumber. It is being painted and fitted up with windows of modern style, and will be indeed quite a comfortable and pretentious house for this ... remote country It is beautiful for situation, having a fine view of the upper part of the bay, and of the mountains and surrounding country Pat ... Hunter says that he is ... one of Portland's fair daughters to share with him in the joys of his new home

That the country is being rapidly settled is evident from the fact that what was but one school district a year ago is now divided up into three This arrangement enables all the children to attend school In his ... a new and better school house is very much needed The old one built of shakes, is ready to fall to pieces, and has to be propped up to save it from being blown down by the strong southern winds The subject of building a new school house is already being agitated and I have no doubt that another summer will see the present building torn down and another and a commodious one built in its place

The salmon fishing on the bay is but just beginning but already as fine chinook salmon are caught as were ever caught in the Columbia river No epicure certainly could desire any richer or better fish

The campers are not quite as numerous, perhaps as last year still there are and have been a great number here from the valley towns and the farming districts All who come enjoy themselves and return very much improved in health

A few days ago a sad accident occurred in the mountains As a party, consisting of three families from near Portland, were coming to the coast, one of the wagons struck a rock on one side of the road and threw out a little child of 2 years of age She was taken up and found to be badly hurt. They went on a short distance to a vacant house, where they stopped all night and did all they could for her but in the course of a few hours she died The heart-stricken parents came on the next morning, and arriving in the settlement, had a coffin made, sent for the Rev Mr Sellwood to bury her, and then after night for it took a long time to make the necessary preparations for the funeral, the procession wended its solitary way by moonlight to the top of a beautiful mound, and there in the words of the beautiful service of the Episcopal church her body was committed dust to dust, in the hope of the resurrection at the last day

THE SURE ROAD TO HAPPINESS

The above is the subject of an address given before a large audience of young men in the hall of the Young Men's Christian association yesterday afternoon, by Rev T L Sails, Evangelist. The meeting commenced at 4 o'clock with singing, after which the audience were led in prayer by Rev Mr Miller The male quartet then sang "Memories of Galilee" Mr Sails was introduced by the general secretary and commenced his address, the following being a brief synopsis

Our maker has a supreme desire for the happiness of the human race, and has demonstrated it is in making laws that, if obeyed, will secure the desired result Humanity as a rule are trying to subvert these laws. Men seek pleasure in the gratification of animal propensities, and often in so doing lower themselves below the brute creation and defeat their own purpose Men seek happiness in the accumulation of wealth, but a man may as well dig for twelve hours a day in his back yard trying to find happiness as to seek it in this manner Fame does not satisfy Andrew Jackson, when leaving the White house at the expiration of his terms, said "It is a hell on earth." Lord Bacon, who went to bed and rose famous, died before he was 67 years of age with expressions of disgust upon his lips that his life had been of so little enjoyment to him. Robert Burns also died before he was 37, writing "Life is a bitter road."

Contrast these with the life of Wesley, who as soon as converted rushed for pen and ink and wrote, "Oh for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise." He lived to be 80 years of age and then wrote "How happy every child of grace that knows his sins forgiven." He had drank from the life-giving fountain The sure road to happiness is in voluntary subjection to physical, civil and religious law—our duty to ourselves, our neighbors and our God. All things are of God, the very air we breathe is given by him for our well being Christ came to bring joy to the sorrowing, peace to the troubled, deliverance to the captive If happiness could be sold what a rush there would be for the market-place God says, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters and he that hath no money, come ye buy and eat, yea come buy wine and milk without money and without price." Real happiness cannot be bought It is God's free gift to mankind in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ and is obtained by faith in him.

At the close of the address, which was most attentively received, a short after-service was attended in the chapel Next Sunday Rev Dr Lindsley will give an address, basing his remarks on the sudden death of two young men which occurred in this city last week.

These Chinese went to Alaska—as they come and go to any part of the country—in accordance with law They were there under protection of the law, and the lawless persons who took it upon themselves to so cruelly drive them out and set them adrift where they would be likely to either freeze, starve or drown, should be dealt with by the law The government has permitted if not induced these Chinese to come within our borders, assuring them that this is a land where all persons are protected in their rights of person and of property, and if, under these circumstances, it does not put a stop to these inhumanities and villainies, and severely punish the offenders it deserves to be attacked and overthrown even by the Chinese The government will no doubt do this, if possible, it will do all that can be done to redress past injuries and prevent others of this sort but it really deserves all the trouble and expense to which it is being subjected as a punishment for ever consenting to open our Western gate ways to such an undesirable population

THE HOP SITUATION

Bradstreet's of the 14th inst. contains an exhaustive review of the hop crop situation Through New York in a drive of forty miles through the heart of the hop regions only an occasional hillock is seen that shows any sign of vitality The state's production in 1885 was 158 100 bales of 180 pounds The 1886 crop will not be over 20,200 bales. Canadian crops are an almost equal failure Wisconsin does not figure in present calculations her crop being almost nothing The Pacific coast crop is placed at 40 000 to 45 000 bales The freight from San Francisco to New York has been raised to 80 per pound The English plant is free from vermin and very satisfactory although not vigorous East and mid Kent districts complain of mold. Gardens in Sussex Worcester and Hereford are all that can be desired It is too early to venture upon a prediction as to how many hops will be harvested but an unusually heavy yield is expected together with an early picking season News from Germany are not so encouraging several sections, Saaz and Bohemia in particular, being seriously affected by lice and blight. In the best Bavarian districts such as Hallertau and Spalt the condition is very good In Elsass and Posen it is fair and in Baden and Upper Austria good Highest estimates do not put the total crop at more than two-thirds that of last year Picking begins the first of September Small lots of Bohemians and Bavarians have been sold at 30½c or 11c in New York freight and duty paid England's consumption is 600 000 cwts If this year's crop reaches 500 000 cwts Great Britain would require 100 000 cwts. Germany practically holds the key to the situation, as some of her product will be wanted on this side Estimating old United States stocks as 120 000 bales and the crop at 65 000 bales gives an available home stock of 185 000 bales Thus supposing the home consumption to be between 120 000 and 150 000 bales there would still be a surplus It must be remembered however that the bulk of old crop on hand both here and elsewhere is of such poor quality as to be mainly useful for working in with new hops, and while there is no prospect of a hop famine, prices will be relatively high Values much depend upon whether or not buyers enter the market early

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK Aug 21 Government bonds were dull and steady This has been an off day on the stock market The market opened this morning generally firm though full half of the active list were unchanged from last evening's closing figures Advances ranged from ⅛ to ¼ per cent while Louisville & Nashville was a conspicuous exception being down ¼ After some activity which however soon died out the market became quiet and somewhat irregular remaining so until noon after which a much better feeling prevailed and under the lead of Lackawanna fractional advances were made but realizing in the last hour again sagged and prices fell off and the market closed rather heavy at insignificant changes from opening prices

Mr Webb designer of the Galatea Genesta and other fast English yachts doesn't appear to be favorably impressed with steel as building material for yachts He says he built the Galatea of steel as an experiment thinking it would increase her buoyancy but declares he will never build another steel vessel as long as he lives and says the Genesta is just as light as the Galatea. Steel doesn't increase a vessel's buoyancy and it doesn't hold the paint so well

PLANS FOR A BIG CRUISER

The Most Powerful Vessel of the Kind Afloat for Our Navy

Army and Navy Journal Aug 14

Secretary Whitney has determined to include in the list of new cruisers for which proposals are to be invited the large unarmored cruiser authorized by the bill passed two weeks ago to increase the naval establishment, and has directed that for this vessel the plans prepared by Chief Constructor White, of England, for the ship known as No 27, be used. These plans contemplate a vessel of greater power and speed than any cruiser now afloat—in fact, the very highest powered vessel of the kind in the world at the time of completion The principal dimensions of the vessel are as follows Length over all, 335 feet, beam, extreme, 43 feet 8 inches, draft, mean, 19 feet 6 inches, load displacement, 4,413 tons, I. H. P, 10,500, forced combustion, twin screws estimated speed, 19 knots The ship has two military masts, no sail power except storm sails coal capacity, about 900 tons. The complement of men is 320 The main battery consists of four 8-inch and six 6 inch breech loading rifles, secondary battery, eight 57 millimeter single shot Hotchkiss guns, two 37-millimeter revolver machine guns, and one short Gatling The hull will be constructed of steel throughout, with double bottom running the entire length of the machinery space, or 150 feet. Throughout the length of the double bottom the ship is constructed on the bracket system or combination of the longitudinal and transverse systems Before and abaft the double bottom framing is of Z bars, the frames in the double bottom are spaced 48 inches between centers before and abaft these points the spacing is 36 inches The outer plating varies from 30 pounds to 17½ pounds the ordinary weight being 20 pounds, per square foot. The machinery, magazines, shell rooms, torpedo rooms and steering gear are placed below an armored deck, which is four inches thick on its sloping sides and two and a half inches on the horizontal part amidships The outer edge of this deck is four feet below the load line, raising one foot above the load line at the horizontal part amidships All the openings in this deck to machinery spaces, magazines, shell rooms, etc, are protected by coffer dams. Above the protection deck the machinery is still further protected by side belts of coal ten feet in thickness, averaging eight feet in depth, extending from the skin of the vessel in board, while below this deck a similar belt is provided seven feet in thickness The vessel is what is called a poop and forecastle-decked ship with open gun deck The battery will be mounted on sponsons on central pivot carriages supporting segmental shields two inches in thickness, two eight inch guns on the poop, two eight-inch guns on the forecastle decks, with the six-inch guns mounted in the intervening space on the gun deck. Two eight inch and two six-inch guns will concentrate with 400 feet of bow or stern, while either six inch broadside can be concentrated within 100 feet of the ship's side The vessel will be provided with five above water torpedo launching tubes, electric search lights, incandescent lighting apparatus for lighting ship, and a complete system of exhaust ventilation for living spaces in connection with the system for forced combustion The protective deck will be carried down to strengthen the ram-shaped bow, which will be thoroughly stiffened and strengthened for running purposes. The hull will be divided with numerous water tight compartments by means of longitudinal and transverse bulkheads. The motive power will be derived from two sets (each in a water-tight compartment) of triple expansion engines, in connection with four double-ended boilers about 14 feet in diameter The engines will be capable of developing 10,500 indicated horse power with forced draft.

How Lincoln's First Call for Troops was Received

Colonel Mosby's Recollections of the Rebellion—Mustering of the Virginians—J E B Stuart as a Cavalry Leader

(By John S Mosby)

Rebellion

How many a spirit born to bless
Hath sunk beneath that withering name
Whom but a day's—an hour's—success
Had wafted to eternal fame

—Tom Moore

In April, 1861, I was attending court at Abingdon, Va., when I met a person who had just stepped out of the telegraph office who informed me that tremendous tidings were passing over the wires Going in, I inquired of the operator what it was, who told me that Lincoln had issued a proclamation calling out troops Fort Sumter had fallen two days before The public mind was already strained to a high pitch of excitement, and it required only a spark to produce an explosion The indignation aroused by the president's proclamation spread like fire on a prairie, and the laws became silent in the midst of arms. People of every age, sex and condition were borne away on the tide of excited feeling that swept over the land

The home of Gov John B Floyd, who had resigned as secretary of war under Buchanan, was at Abingdon I went to his house and told him the news He immediately issued a call to arms, which resounded like the roll of Ziska's drum among the mountains of Southwestern Virginia. Many of the most influential families in that region were descendants of the men who had fought under Morgan and Campbell at Eutaw Springs and King's Mountain Their military spirit was inflamed by stirring appeals to the memories of the deeds their sires had done Women too, came forward to inspire men with a spirit of heroic self sacrifice and a devotion that rivaled the maidens of Carthage and Saragossa

All the pride and affection that Virginians had felt in the traditions of the government which their ancestors had made and the great inheritance which they had bequeathed were lost in the overpowering sentiment of sympathy with the people who were threatened with invasion It is a mistake to suppose that the Virginia people went to war in obedience to any decree of their state commanding them to go On the contrary, the people were in a state of armed revolution before the state had acted in its corporate capacity I went along with the flood like everybody else A few individuals here and there attempted to breast the storm of passion, and appeared like Virgil's shipwrecked mariners

Rari nantes in gurgite vasto

Their fate did not encourage others to follow their example, and all that they did was to serve "like ocean wrecks to illuminate the storm" In anticipation of these events a cavalry company had for some months been in process of organization, which I had joined as a private

This company, known as the Washington mounted rifles—was immediately called together by its commanding officer, Capt William E Jones. Captain Jones was a graduate of West Point, and had resigned some years before from the United States army He was a stern disciplinarian, and devoted to duty Under a rugged manner and impracticable temper he had a heart that beat with warm impulses To his inferiors in rank he was just and kind, but too much inclined to cross the wishes and criticise the orders of his superiors He had been classmate of Stonewall Jackson at the military academy, and told me many anecdotes of Jackson's piety, as well as his eccentricities He was a hard swearer, and a few days after the battle of Bull Run he told me that he was at Jackson's headquarters, and Jackson got very much provoked at something a soldier had done, when Jones said "Jackson, let me cuss him for you" He fell in the battle with Gen. Hunter in the valley of Virginia, in June, 1864 We went into barracks at Abingdon, and began drilling No service I ever had to perform during the war went as much against the grain as standing guard the first night I was in camp I had no friends in the cavalry company, so I applied to Gov Letcher for a transfer to an infantry company that had been raised in that part of the county where I resided But on the very day I made the application a telegraphic order came for us to start for Richmond immediately, and I never heard anything more of it. My company marched on horseback all the way to Richmond —about 500 miles—while the infantry company went by rail But how small is the control that mortals have over their own destinies. The company to which I unsuccessfully applied to be transferred, became a part of the immortal division of Stonewall Jackson, in which I would have had only a slight chance of asserting my individuality, but would have been merged in the mass. I remember distinctly how now, with a heart almost bursting with grief in the midst of a rain, I bade my friends in the infantry company farewell just as they were about getting on the train I had no dream then that I would ever be anything more than a private soldier On the same day, in rain and mud we started on the march to Richmond A few days before a flag had been presented to our company by a young lady with an address, in which she reminded us that "the coward dies a thousand deaths—the brave man dies but one." I am sure there was not a man among us who did not feel the ambition of the youth in Longfellow's poem bearing onward amid the ice and snow of Alpine hight his banner with its strange device

The march to Richmond under a soldier who had bivouacked on the plains was a course of beneficial discipline The grief of parting from home and friends soon wore away and we all were as gay as if we were going to a wedding or a picnic. Gloom was succeeded by mirth and songs of gladness, and if Abraham Lincoln could have been sung out of the South as James II was out of England our company would have done it and saved the country all the fighting The favorite songs were generally those of sentiment and sadness intermingled with an occasional comic melody I remember this refrain of one that often resounded from the head to the rear of the column as we passed some farmer's house

He who has good buttermilk a plenty and gives the soldiers none
He shan't have any of our buttermilk when his buttermilk is gone

The buttermilk, as well as everything else that the farmer had that was good, was generally given to the soldiers The country was brimful of patriotism The gayety with which men marched into the face of death is not so remarkable as the fortitude and cheerfulness of the wives and mothers who stayed at home and waited for the news of the battles. In nearly every home of the South could be found an example of that Spartan mother who sent her son to the wars with her last injunction to return with his shield or return upon it. This courage, exhibited in the beginning, survived to the last through all the long agony and bloody sweat of the struggle On reaching Richmond after a few days' rest, we were ordered to the Shenandoah valley A day or so before we started Capt Jones made a requisition on the quartermaster's department for clothing for his company We were furnished with suits of a very rough quality of goods, manufactured in the Virginia penitentiary It almost produced a mutiny in the camp, The men piled the clothes up in front of the captain's tent All but two refused to wear them—private Fountain Beattie and myself I do not think any clothes I ever wore did me more service than these When I became a commander I made Beattie a lieutenant I think we were both as contented on the picket line dressed in our penitentiary suits as we ever were in the gay uniforms we afterwards wore Our march from Richmond to the Shenandoah valley was an ovation—our people had had no experience of the misery and desolation that follows in the track of war—they were full of its romance, and expected us to win battles that would rival the glories of Wagram and Marengo They never counted the cost of victory

Our company was incorporated into the first regiment of the Virginia cavalry commanded by Col J E B Stuart. It was stationed at the village called Bunker Hill, on the turnpike leading from Winchester to Martinsburg, and was observing the Union army under Patterson, which was then stationed at the latter place, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad Gen Joseph E Johnston then had his headquarters at Winchester I first saw Stuart at Bunker Hill He had then lately resigned from the U S army to link his fortunes with the Southern Confederacy He was just 28 years of age—one year older than myself—strongly built, with blue eyes, ruddy complexion and a reddish beard He wore a blouse and a foraging cap with a linen cover called a havelock, as a protection against the sun His personal appearance indicated the distinguishing traits of his character—dash, great strength of will and indomitable energy Stuart soon showed that he possessed all the qualities of a great leader of cavalry—a sound judgment, a quick intelligence to penetrate the designs of an enemy, mingled with the brilliant courage of Rupert

There was then such a wide chasm between me and him that I was only permitted to view him at a distance, and had no thought of rising to intimacy with him. He took us the next day on a scout down toward Martinsburg and gave us our first lesson in war and sight of the enemy We saw the hills around the town covered with the white tents of the Union army, and caught two soldiers who had ventured too far outside the picket lines. Since then I have witnessed the capture of thousands, but have never felt the same joy as I did over my first two prisoners. A few days after this Patterson started out on a promenade toward Winchester, and then turned squarely off and went back toward Charlestown Patterson made a good deal of noise with the shells that he threw at us, but nobody was hurt. Stuart kept close on his flanks, both to watch his movements and to screen Johnston's, who had just begun to move to join Beauregard at Manassas Fitz John Porter and George H Thomas, who afterward became distinguished generals were on his staff Patterson has been greatly censured for not pressing Johnston and detaining him in the Shenandoah valley instead of making the retrograde movement to Charlestown that permitted his escape He alleges that he acted under the advice of his staff officers Patterson was a conspicuous figure as well as failure in the first scene of the first act of the drama of war, after that he disappeared forever His campaign in the Shenandoah valley was a mere prologue to the great tragedy that was afterward acted there Stuart left him in a position where he could neither be of advantage to the cause he upheld nor injury to that he opposed, and crossed the Blue Ridge to take part in the battle of Bull Run on the 21st of July
